Know what to look for.

Symptoms of mental health problems can affect your wellness, ability to function in daily life, and relationships with others. Identifying symptoms early will prevent them from getting worse and interfering with your recovery.

DIAGNOSIS

Talk to your primary healthcare provider about your mental health.

Let your doctor know if you experience any mental health issues after your concussion and if you have had mental health challenges in the past. They will ask you questions and observe your behaviour to make a diagnosis and recommend treatment. They might also talk to your family members to find out more information about your symptoms.

TREATMENT

Get on the road to recovery with an individualized treatment plan.

You may need counseling, talk therapy, or medications (sometimes a combination is best). Your primary healthcare provider will create your treatment plan based on your the type and severity of your symptoms. You might be referred to a mental health specialist if your symptoms are complex.

RECOVERY

Recovery takes time. Build a strong support system to help you through this process.

Having a support system of close friends and family members is important. Avoid isolation and reintegrate yourself into daily activity as symptoms allow. Connect with a peer support group, create a consistent routine, exercise regularly, and eat balanced meals to support recovery.
